WORK OF THE LADIES

AN INTERESTING MEETING IN CONNECTION WITH ASSOCIATION.

EFFORTS ALONG MISSIONARY LINES.

Best Plans for Promoting the Cause Discussed-Addresses by Drs. Whitsitt. Willingham, Enger, and Others-Those Present.

The Haptist women who had assembled in Richmond to attend their annual conference of workers and many others of the city were seen early yesterday morning wending their way to Calvary church. It was the last day, and much was to be done. Mrs. J. S. Barker, formerly a missionary to Brazil, opened the meeting with religious exercises, after which Mrs. A. M. Gwathmey, president of the Central Committee, took the chair; Miss Daisy Hutson was the recording secretary, and Mrs. W. E. Hatcher corresponding sec retary pro tem.

A paper written by Miss Sallie Hart Harris was read. Her subject was: "Missionary Work in Country Socie-ties." She wrote of the difficulties en-countered, and suggested various me-thods for overcoming them, as working thods for overcoming them, as working for portico-boxes, missionary letters, and the coming of missionaries. Five-minute talks followed by the following ladies: Mrs. Turpin, Miss Talley, and Mrs. Wood. On motion, it was resolved that at 12 o'clock each day a prayer for mission work be offered by every member present. One lady told how a society had overcome the indifference of its members by having special prayer for them. Its growth in members steadily increased afterwards.

Next followed the reading of letters from foreign missionaries. Miss Sale, of China, sent a cheery letter to the meeting, embodying her trials, difficulties, and joys in her work. One was also read from Miss Green and Solomon Ginsberg. of Brazil. Then followed a discussion as to the name of the organization. Some thought that, as it was organized as auxiliary to the Woman's Missionary Union, located in Baltimore, it ought to be called the State Union. It was decided to call it the annual meeting of the Central Committee Auxiliary to the General Baptist Accounter of the Accounter of the Central Committee Auxiliary to the General Baptist Accounter of the Central Committee auxiliary to the General Baptist Accounter of the Central Committee auxiliary to the General Baptist Accounter of the Central Committee auxiliary to the General Baptist Accounter of the Central Committee auxiliary to the General Baptist Accounter of the Central Committee of the Central portico-boxes, missionary letters, and

Mrs. Hogart read the report of James-River Association. Miss Estill Rudd, of Mid-lie District; Mrs. J. S. Barker, of Portsmouth; Miss Aldridge, of the Potomac, and Miss Headen, of Powell River; Mrs. Robert N. Pollard, of Rappahannock; Mrs. Woodson, of Roanoke; Mrs. L. H. Willis, of Shiloh; Miss Ida Laws, of Shenandoah; Mrs. Fisher, of Strawberry, and Mrs. N. P. Picasants, of the Valley Association. A letter was read also from Miss Armstrong, regretting her inability to be present. inability to be present.

DR. WHITSITT SPEAKS. At this point the announcement was made that Dr. Whitsitt, president of the Theological Seminary at Louisville, was at the door, and wished to make a fiveninute talk to the ladies. He was introduced, and delighted the membership by the was training. present by telling them he was training the preachers under him to go out as helpers of the woman's work.
